What is this type of Insurance?

Most home insurance policies apply an insurance excess, or deductible, which is the amount you are responsible for paying as the first part of a claim that you make under a home insurance policy.

Home Excess Protection Insurance is designed to repay you the amount of any policy excess you must pay when you make a successful claim under a home insurance policy.

What is Insured?

- ✓ Excess Reimbursement: following a claim on your home insurance policy, we will pay the amount of any excess that you had to pay (up to a maximum reimbursement limit per policy period as shown on your policy schedule).
- ✓ This policy applies if:
 - ✓ the incident that gave rise to the claim under your home insurance policy occurred between the start and end date of cover of this policy, as stated on your policy schedule.
 - ✓ the claim under your home insurance policy was successful and was for more than the amount of the excess.

Are there any restrictions on cover?

- ! You can claim under this excess reimbursement policy more than once during the period of insurance, but we will only reimburse you in total up to the maximum reimbursement limit shown on your policy schedule.
- ! You, the policyholder, must be a permanent resident of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland or the Isle of Man, as defined in your full policy documentation.

What is not Insured?

- ✗ If the incident that gave rise to the claim under your home insurance policy happened before the start date of cover, as stated on your policy schedule.
- ✗ If no excess was paid by you or deducted from the claim settlement by the insurer of your home insurance policy.
- ✗ If your claim under your home insurance policy was not successful or was for less than the amount of the excess.
- ✗ Where any amount contributed by you or deducted from the settlement of your claim is not clearly stated as being the policy excess.
- ✗ If the excess required from you under your home insurance policy has already been/or will be reimbursed by another party.
- ✗ If you were aware at the start date of cover that you were going to make a claim under your home insurance policy.
- ✗ If you are unable to provide confirmatory evidence from the insurer of your home insurance policy to support your claim, or we are unable to validate whether the incident which gave rise to a claim occurred.
